

Dear Deep,

Happy Birthday, bro. I just want you to know how much I truly appreciate you. You've been my right hand for almost five years now, and honestly, I've lost track of when we even became best friends it just happened naturally. You've been there for me through some of my lowest moments, always checking in, always making sure I was good when things weren't easy.

I want you to know I've got your back the same way always. No matter where life takes us or what comes our way, I'll be there for you, bro. I usually don't struggle writing letters like this; when it's for my parents or family, the words just flow. But with you, it's different. There's so much I want to say that I don't even know where to start. You have no idea how much I root for you and your success. I'm always proud of you.

I know I've been really busy lately with work and building something on the side, so things have been hectic. I wasn't able to get a physical gift in time, so instead I decided to create something that won't get lost, won't expire, and that you'll always have access to. I hope you like it, bro it came straight from the heart.

Happy Birthday once again. I'm incredibly proud of you and everything you've overcome. Here's to another blessed year and to how far you've come.

Always got you,
Best,
